NOTICE

Dairymen's Association and Milk Producers

All those who wish to have their barns inspected and cattle tested should report to me as I am sending in the names every few days and all those who do not report this month will have to wait for some time before same can be carried out, thus causing considerable delay besides being cut off from supplying milk or sweet cream.

These regulations were issued by the Health Department of the City of Calgary and the federal authorities.

A meeting of the officers and members of the Didsbury Curling held in Mr. P. B. Reed's office on Tuesday night was well attended. It was decided after much discussion that an open bonspiel could not be held here this year. It was also decided that instead of playing off in the manner of a bonspiel, the local fifteen rinks be divided into three groups of five, each to play off amongst themselves and the three winners to play each other for first second and third. There have been several prizes liberally donated by some of the merchants in town and with the Cup to play for this will be a very interesting schedule.

JANITOR WANTED

Tenders will be accepted by the undersigned up till February 5th, 1922, for the position of janitor for the Didsbury Schools. Applicants must have third class engineers certificate.

J. M. Reed,
Secretary Didsbury S. D.

The Dairy Regulations

The regulations regarding the shipping of milk and cream into Calgary which was put into force by the City of Calgary last year must now be enforced and those who do not comply with the same can only sell their milk for churning purposes.

There is quite a large number of dairymen in the district who have not so far complied with the regulations which call for the inoculation of their herds and certain sanitary conditions on their premises. We understand that the latter are very simple and can easily be complied with.

Mr. Walter Scheidt, Secretary of the Dairymen's Association, is asking all those who are interested in this matter to report to him at once so that this inspection can be carried out, otherwise those who do not may have to wait some considerable time before this can be done.

In conversation with Mr. Derby, manager of the Crystal Dairy, the Pioneer learned that unless these regulations are carried out by the dairymen that they cannot get a supply of milk and cream large enough to carry on and that they will have to close up their plant. They cannot even make ice cream without the milk coming from inspected dairies and the only thing they could use the milk for would be for churning purposes, and they can only purchase from patrons whose dairy's have been inspected after February 5th.

See that you get your application in for inspection at once and avoid a loss that will perhaps mean a good deal to you.

A Very Real Need

The Red Cross Society of Alberta, by arrangement with the Government of Alberta, has been in charge of the distribution of clothing to the residents of the drought stricken areas where needed. The Society now finds that the funds for this work have been exhausted and it is opening a campaign for the raising of from $30,000.00 to $100,000.00 for the payment for clothing already purchased, and for the carrying on of this work for the balance of the season.

I have no hesitation in giving this appeal my hearty endorsement. The work of the Red Cross in the distribution of this clothing in the drought areas has been of inestimable value.

The need for clothing is a very real one and I am confident that the need existing now in the south for clothing only needs to be drawn directly to the attention of the people of Alberta to ensure a generous response to this appeal for funds.

High School Exams.

The following results of High School examinations are based partly on the terms work and partly on the recent Christmas examination. The suggestion is made that the parents note carefully the student's standing and, in case of a low record, investigate the causes. The teachers are willing and quite anxious to discuss individual cases with the parents.

Canada's Needs

No. 3.—A World Market

In urging the view that one of Canada's needs at the present time is a world-wide market for the products of its farms, forests, fisheries and mines, but chiefly its farms, perhaps it would be nearer the mark to say that Canada needs minimal action by its Federal government to direct the products of this country to those foreign markets where there is a demand at a profitable price for the very things this Dominion requires to sell and can raise in abundance.

Of all the great producing countries of the world it is possibly not incorrect to say that, speaking nationally, Canada is the most backward of all in promoting trade in other countries. In the years before the war, Germany, under the direct guidance of its national government, was pushing its wares into every nook and corner of the world. Great Britain has for long years been wide awake and active in extending its trade all over the world, and Government agents have been a big factor in developing British trade and the sale of British-made goods in countries both civilized and uncivilized. The United States, too, handicapped though it was because of a lack of merchant shipping has not neglected its opportunities and U.S. consular representatives are active agents in promoting United States trade.

But Canada has done little or nothing. The efforts put forth have been puny and puny, penny-wise and pound foolish, lacking in vision and totally devoid of real initiative and aggressiveness.

In Canada, both Government and people have, for the most part, been quite content to allow the export trade of the country to be handled and controlled by other countries, with the natural and inevitable result that it has always taken second place to the interests of those countries through which it is controlled. The Government has not had wide awake and trained representatives in foreign countries to size up the situation there, inform our Government of conditions of which Canada could take advantage, and no national machinery whereby such opportunities are presented themselves could be quickly seized.

For example, it has recently been stated by a writer who quoted facts and figures in support of the statements made, that during the past year when livestock was a drug on the Western Canadian market and where a price could not be realized to cover the cost of production there was an active demand at high prices for cattle in Mexico, where, because of the many years of revolution and political upheaval, the livestock of the country was reduced to a minimum. In Mexico, this writer declared, was a ready market at high prices for the very animals which Canada had in abundance and was unable to sell.

In Mexico, also, high prices, almost excessive prices, were being paid for wheat and flour, while the best price obtainable by our Western Canadian farmers for their wheat was less than the cost of growing, harvesting and marketing the wheat through the old methods and channels.

Why has Canada not built up a department of the national government which would, through its foreign representatives, be made immediately aware of such conditions, and which could at once set national machinery in motion to take full advantage of the opportunities thus presented? Instead we have remained idle, trusting to Old World conditions to right themselves so that our wheat could flow with a profit to Liverpool and Europe, or dribble into the United States, and, with our live cattle shut out of Britain, we have disposed of our cattle at a loss or made meagre sales on the Chicago market. Canada is a full-fledged member of the League of Nations; our statesmen and politicians, public men and newspapermen speak of Canada as a nation, we may as well be beginning to think nationally, but we have yet to begin the important work of acting nationally. Yet there is no country today in a better position to undertake a national commercial undertaking, and no country stands quite so badly in need of it.

Canada possesses a great system of national railways—the largest railway under one management of any railway in the world—and it also possesses the greatest private-owned railway in the world, and the most efficient Canada likewise owns and operates a national merchant marine with steamers plying on all oceans. The national railways and national merchant marine are both operating at a loss, with annual deficits of between fifty and one hundred million dollars. What they need is more business. The nation is suffering for lack of markets wherein to sell the surplus products at a price which will yield a profit over production costs. Yet with all this national equipment ready to our hands, the Federal Government has not seized the opportunity of organizing a real department devoted to the development of foreign markets for Canadian produce.

It is time Canada had a national trade organization with aggressive, expert representatives in all foreign lands offering even a remote chance of being a profitable field for Canadian trade.

The Golden Age

The Luxuries of the Past Are Only the Common Comforts of Today

The comforts of 1921 are the luxuries of 1870. What household of that time could obtain the devices which are the common indispensable equipment of our day? Our young men and maidens who demand a standard of living which the youth of 1870 had never thought of may be distressing to old-fashioned people, but they are enjoying natural forces. The Victorians themselves were not content with what satisfied the eighteenth century. That all these changes have made for happiness we may feel no compulsion to believe. But there is nothing in the past to justify us in expecting that the young people of the present will be content with what satisfied us in our youth. They may be going on the road to the true golden age; they may have chosen the primrose path which leads to the everlasting bonfire. What is certain is that they will not stand still—London Daily Telegraph.

A Condition Due Entirely to Poor, Watery Blood

The girl who returns home from school or from work thoroughly tired out will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown, because this getting tired so easily is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning blood that must not be disregarded if her health is to be preserved.

When the blood becomes thin and impure the patient becomes pale, languid and anemic and her only cure is to eat easily but suffers from headaches, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells and a loss of appetite. This condition will go from bad to worse, if prompt steps are not taken to improve and enrich the blood supply. To make the rich, red blood that brings the glow of health no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It gives a fair trial who uses brings purer, brighter eyes, a good appetite and good health. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made thousands of pale, languid girls active and strong. They Profit Most Who Serve Best

Heroic Example of the Power of Advertising

Somebody out of touch with truth, once said there is no sentiment in business. Another greater in wisdom, declared: "They profit most who serve best."

All this year a concern that helped put Burlington, Vermont, on the map of national business, is celebrating fifty years of successful service of the womanhood of the world. "Diamond Dyes" is half a century old and they are having a series of happy episodes to make the anniversary a noteworthy one.

"Diamond Dyes" is a heroic example of the power of advertising, for the plant of small beginnings now covers a city block. The business was built on "making good" the advertising that has made "Diamond Dyes" a household word. Possibly the greatest asset of this proved old to economy, is the good-will of families that run through generations. Young women tell us that their mothers and grandmothers before them, were Diamond Dye enthusiasts. They like the Diamond "service plan" which makes it clear that for a few cents it is easy to "dye old things new."

The Wells & Richardson people are going to make the golden jubilee of Diamond Dyes nation wide. They will do this by the biggest newspaper advertising appropriation ever made in the fifty years of service.

Progressive Party Will Maintain Identity In The Ottawa House

Whitford. — Former Progressive members of parliament will support the government in putting into effect reforms which have been advocated by the National Progressive Party, but the identity of the Progressive Party will be maintained. This was made plain by Hon. T. A. Crerar, in his first speech since the election, when he read to the convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba a resolution adopted at the secret conference of Progressive members held at Saskatoon, December 20. This resolution was read as follows:

"That this meeting of the western supporters of the National Progressive Party, having taken under consideration the existing political situation in Canada and the course the Progressive Party should follow, is of the opinion that the gravity and importance of our many national problems call for a strong government."

"That the first consideration of the Progressive Party will be to support the legislation the country needs, both in the economic and administrative sense, and in the larger sense of promoting and developing the spirit of Canadian national unity; and we will extend to the Hon. Mr. King's government all reasonable cooperation and support in any efforts it may make to enact into legislation those economic and administrative reforms which have been advocated by the National Progressive Party, while at the same time maintaining the complete identity and organization of the Progressive Party."

"That resolution," commented Mr. Crerar, "or the sentiments expressed in it, will be the sentiments which will guide the Progressive members in the House of Commons."

Driver's Quick Action Saves Many Lives

Bomb Thrown at Car Goes Wide of Mark

Belfast.—A bomb was thrown at a tramcar bearing seventy-five persons to their work in the Crumlin Road district. The quick action of the driver, who put full speed on when he heard a revolver shot, resulted in the missile going wide of the mark. The passengers were greatly frightened by the explosion, which splintered the car. A man and his wife living nearby, who went to their front door, their house to learn the cause of the commotion were shot dead by a volley of rifle fire which swept the streets.

German Railways May Seize Coal Shipments

Berlin.—Authorization has been given by the German officials in charge of operating the railways for the seizure and use of private coal shipments in transit where necessary, to prevent a traffic tieup through the fuel shortage which is said to be acute on many divisions. Shortage of rolling stock and the coal deliveries to the allies are given as reasons for the fuel shortage.

Public carnivals and celebrations have been prohibited by the Prussian Government. The other federal governments have been asked to issue orders along the same lines.

Idle Land Incurs Loss

Farmers Urged to Substitute Oats for Part of Summerfall

Saskatoon, Sask.—An appeal for experiment on the part of farmers in the matter of substituting oats soon in rows at least for a part of their summerfall was voiced at the agricultural societies convention by Prof. Manley Champlin, of the field husbandry department of the University of Saskatchewan. Prof. Champlin pointed out that particularly under present conditions, account must be taken of the loss incurred by leaving land idle in summerfall, a loss which had to be written off against the cost of grain production. There was also an address on farm management systems by W. C. McKillop, superintendent of the Brandon Experimental Farm.

Screenings are said to give off as good a heat as soft coal.

In Closer Touch With Motherland

Burnham Sees Good Results From Imperial Press Meeting

London.—Lord Burnham, proprietor of the Daily Telegraph, speaking at the production of a film illustrating the meetings of the Imperial Press Conference, of which he was chairman, held in Canada some time ago, said there was no doubt that, as a direct result of the conference and the intimate contact it brought leading British journalists into with Canadian conditions from Halifax to Victoria, the great daily newspaper of London and the province had largely increased their intelligence department regarding Canada and were carrying more Canadian news than ever before.

Lord Burnham went on to refer to the corresponding value that had been obtained by Canadian daily newspapers through the arrangement entered into between Reuters's and Canadian Press Limited, whereby a valuable supplementary cable service of British news was going direct from London into their offices. The most important part of this new departure was the access that the Canadian Press thus got to the news of the British Press Association, the co-operative organs of British newspapers covering news of the British Isles in much the same way as the Canadian Press covers the news of the Dominion.

The Duke expressed pleasure that work would be done through the undertaking for part of the vast army of London's unemployed. It also felt gratified that the exhibition's guarantee fund had exceeded the minimum of a million pounds, and wished the important imperial enterprise every success.

Daily Newspaper Publishers Meet

Important Matters Discussed at Conference in Regina

Regina.—Publishers of daily newspapers in the three prairie provinces were in conference here discussing various matters affecting the publishing business.

The question of the additional heavy burden thrown on newspaper publishers by the 500 per cent. increase in the postage rate on second class mail matter came in for considerable discussion, and it was shown that in the case of some of the larger newspapers the increased postal rate meant an additional expense of $2 per mail subscriber per annum.

The question of wage scales obtaining in the prairie provinces was likewise discussed at considerable length. Compared with Vancouver and Eastern Canada, it was shown that the wage scale at present operative in the prairie provinces are very much higher, or, so much so as to place the printing and publishing business of the three prairie provinces under a very severe handicap.

The following publishers were present: E. H. Macmillan, Manitoba Free Press; E. M. Nicholls, Winnipeg Tribune; Allan Holmes, Prince Albert Herald; C. A. Elvin, Saskatoon Star and Phoenix; Gordon Hoole, Regina Leader and Post; Thos. Miller, Moose Jaw Times; A. Tyrell, Medicine Hat News; J. H. Woods and W. Watson, Calgary Herald; A. Ford, Calgary Albertan; A. Torrance, Lethbridge Herald; John M. Turpie, Edmonton Journal; G. McNeil, Edmonton Bulletin.

Want Reduction in Tariff

Resolution Will Be Introduced in Saskatchewan Legislature to this Effect

Regina.—The Saskatchewan Legislature has resumed sessions after the Christmas vacation. Hon. S. J. Lafla gave notice of a resolution to be brought forward asking the Federal Government for a general reduction in the customs tariff; resumption of reciprocity negotiations with the United States; and phasing in the free list of agricultural implements, farm and household machinery, vehicles, fertilizers, coal, lumber, cement, gasoline, illuminating and lubricating oils, and raw materials and machinery used in their manufacture.

Mr. Duhar, Minister, will introduce a resolution asking the Dominion Government to prohibit the export liquor traffic.

Hon. Mr. Dunning gave notice of a resolution pressing for reduction of freight rates. In introducing for the second reading the bill to ratify agreements for the lignite experiments, Mr. Dunning stated that there was hope for success which justified the voting of additional funds.

A Beggar Capitalist

Madrid.—Blasco Pío Rodriguez, when he was rowed up in a police raid on the beggar nests of Madrid the other day, proved to be a capitalist with $30,000 in his name in a provincial bank, while he also possesses a farm with 30 cows. This fortune is the result of many years of mendicancy.

Dublin.—Eamonn De Valera informed the correspondents that he believed his party would ignore the meeting of the parliament. In response to an inquiry regarding his plans, he said he intended to continue the fight for independence; he supposed elections would be held within six or nine months.

Such elections added Mr. De Valera, take the signing of the treaty in London as an example, would be held under the British threat of renewal of warfare and therefore he would not accept the verdict as the unaccepted will of the people.

"There is a big line of cleavage," said Mr. De Valera, "between those standing for dependence and those for independence. Never would he under any conditions take the oath of allegiance contained in the treaty. Alluding to the Irish republican bonds, he declared they would be redeemed by whatever government was eventually established, and added that a meeting of the leaders of the Sinn Féin party would be held to consider the general position."

An important development was the issuance of a manifesto by the Irish Labor party stating that labor would participate in the elections to secure representation in the new free state government.

The method adopted in summoning those who are to ratify the treaty is held to indicate that the British desire to avoid reflection in the transaction of the authority of Ireland. Instead of acting directly, the British Government acted through the Dail cabinet, leaving the Dail to initiate execution of the treaty.

The Associated Press is officially informed that the heads of the Dublin Castle would do their utmost to facilitate and expedite the provisional government's taking over full authority. Arrangements have been made for the speedy evacuation of the auxiliaries and, as soon as the treaty is ratified by the southern parliament, evacuation of the army will begin. Any of the existing Irish officials whom the free state dismisses must be compensated from Irish funds, excepting the auxiliaries and Black and Tans, who will be compensated by the British Government.

DO YOU SMOKE TOO MUCH?

There are many men on whose heart and nervous system tobacco produces the most serious results. It causes palpitation, pain in the heart, irregularity of the heart, makes the hands tremble, sets the nerves on edge, causes shortness of breath and loss of sleep.

To counteract this demoralizing influence on the heart and nerves there is no remedy so equal

MILBURN'S

HEART AND NERVE PILLS

They make the heart beat strong and steady, restore tone and vigor to the nerves, and remove all the evil results caused by the tobacco.

Mr. Frank Luties, 71 Terrace Hill St., Bradford, Ont., writes: "I had been troubled with palpitation of the heart for a number of years, and by spells it would bother me a lot. The doctor told me it would stop on me sometime if I did not quit tobacco. When I would get a spell my heart would pound, and I would break out in a perspiration, and get so weak, I would have to sit right down and quit my work; also in the night I would wake up and my heart would be going, I should say about 120 beats a minute. About three years ago I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, took them, and found that I did the job. I am feeling fine and have gained over 20 pounds in weight."

Price, 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

One third of your life is allotted to sleep. Do you get your share?

The most important period in the process of applying nutrition to the repair of the body is while you are asleep. For the most favorable transformation of digested food into nerve and cell tissue, so doctors tell us, sleep is absolutely essential.

Is it any wonder that those who suffer from lack of proper sleep are weak, pale and lacking in energy or ambition?

One of the causes of insomnia is nerve-irritation from tea and coffee drinking. Tea and coffee both contain caffeine, which has a tendency to cause undue stimulation. The irritating effect of caffeine often results in insomnia, depression, and a weakened nervous system.

You can easily overcome these troubles by drinking Postum instead of tea or coffee. Postum is a delicious, satisfying cereal beverage, and it is absolutely free from caffeine, or any other harmful substance.

Ask your grocer for Postum. Drink this delicious, refreshing beverage for ten days. Then see if you do not feel better and more clear headed, and if you do not sleep better at night—as so many other people have proved for themselves.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

Now we know what's the matter. We have always been under the impression that we were at least as good as the average of humanity but President Wood of the U. F. A. has placed us amongst the gutter-snipes, so we know now where we are at. However, he's going to reform us, so there is hope for us yet.

President Wood of the U. F. A. took a gratuitous slam at the press of Alberta in one of his speeches at the Convention last week. It is unfortunate that Mr. Wood made the break he did as we do not believe that the average farmer takes his view. It is a fact, perhaps not realized as much as it should be, that Alberta has in the ranks of the Press men who are a credit to any province and whose principles are above reproach as we happen to know. Just because they will not bow the knee to one class or group is not saying that they are opposed to that class or group. Their duty is to try as far as their human and mechanical abilities will allow to place before the people the facts as near as they can come to them, and it is not what the average newspaper is inclined to do. If the press is to be a one-sided affair then we should have the same system that is in force in Russia—only the government should be allowed to operate—and then it would be good-bye to freedom and the liberty of the people. Only by an untrammeled press can the people be informed. This talk of the Alberta press being "in the gutter" gets no one anywhere and can easily be refuted.

CANADIAN TRADE

Examination of Canada's trade figures brings out a number of peculiar circumstances. First of all, the figures demonstrate that we are buying too much from the United States in comparison with their purchases from us. Secondly, while our sales abroad are in a measure satisfactory, we are not buying enough from the foreign countries that buy from us.

Broadly speaking, this results in two sets of adverse conditions. The amount we purchase from the United States being too large results in depreciation of the Canadian dollar there. We must equalize our purchases to the basis of what they buy from us, so only by that means can the adverse exchange be adjusted. Another condition is that the ships of the Canadian Merchant Marine are at present returning from foreign ports with inadequate cargoes. It is not sufficient to load ships one way only. Return cargoes are necessary to the economical operation of ships.

The countries to which the Canadian Merchant Marine are operating—British West Indies, China, Belgium, France, Britain and South American ports, offer opportunities for their chase of many commodities which Canada does not or cannot produce herself. We must not simply sell to these people, we must "trade" with them.

The revision of our buying and selling operations on this basis would result in the advance of the Canadian dollar to par value in the United States and have a most salutary effect on the financial condition of our Nationally-owned railroads and ships by diverting to Canadian seaports a much larger proportion of the tonnage which for years has entered and left Canada through the seaports of the United States.

LEGISLATORS SHOULD SEE CANADA

Parliament at its next session must deal with great and vital problems; urgent and imperative; which cannot be evaded or laid aside for future consideration.

Immigration, Railways, Taxation, Freight Rates, Tariff, Public Works will present questions demanding immediate action by the decision of men who should have some personal knowledge as distinguished from a geographical or historical knowledge.

Acquaintance in the great majority of cases leads to appreciation. Every member of the Canadian Parliament should be invited, and so far as the Government has power to influence, requested to traverse Canada from coast to coast; going one way over the Canada National Railway and the other over the Canadian Pacific.

No man is fit to legislate for Canada until he has seen Canada. Money expended by the Government in paying the expenses of every member of one end of Canada to the other would be only a reasonable and necessary insurance premium for securing good legislation and ensuring against inadequate or ill-advised legislation.

We believe that the efficiency of Parliament would be very greatly increased once every member had made a transcontinental tour of personal investigation. Even if the times were normal, and the demands for Parliamentary action confined to routine legislation, there would be a great factor of safety in legislative action by a body of men who were dealing with localities they have actually visited.

Our legislators friends from the Eastern Provinces, once they come out and get acquainted, will find that Western Canadians inhabit a fair country of rich resources; and that the great golden future of Canada will materialize largely as a result of co-operation between East and West; and will be retarded by any intervening discriminations.—The Vancouver Sun.

Provincial Government Happenings

Attorney General Brownlee, has returned from Eastern Canada where he has been investigating the working of The Ontario Temperance Act. It is expected he will issue a statement shortly as to what the government intends doing in the way of liquor legislation at the coming session. It is anticipated that drastic action along certain lines may be taken.

A misapprehension appears to have gained ground in many quarters in Southern Alberta to the effect that owners of autos must have licenses whether the cars are in use or not. This is not correct. The owner of a car needs a license only when he commences to operate his car on the public highway. He may leave it in the garage all winter without requiring a license for it.

Members of the Provincial Government are considering the advisability of having the Workmen's Compensation Act extended to include medical services for sickness, and following this, to have the Act extended to include farm laborers. The effect of the first part would be to do away with all contracting work by private doctors at mines and other such places, since medical services would be supplied by the Workmen's Compensation Board for sickness under the fees paid by the workmen of the Board. The inclusion of farm help under the Compensation Act, with the extension to cover services for sickness, would do away probably with the necessity for institution of a health poll tax in the Province, request for which tax has already been made.

A debenture issue totalling $3,865,000 was sold by the Provincial Government this week to the Dominion Securities Corporation, at the price of $102.666 per $100. This is the best price which has ever been obtained by the Province for its bonds, and reflects the general confidence felt in the security of the province and in the administration of the Government.

The Provincial Department of Health is emphasizing the advisability of the administration of antitoxin in cases of diphtheria. Supplies of antitoxin are kept on hand by the Provincial Department of Health at Edmonton and the Provincial Laboratory. Supplies of antitoxin are kept on hand by the City Health Officers of Lethbridge and Calgary. It is also advisable that each municipality keep a small supply on hand. Antitoxin should be administered as quickly as possible in the case of diphtheria. In cases treated within the first twenty-four hours or so, the mortality is practically nil. Every hour's delay lessens the chances of successful treatment. In case of suspected diphtheria antitoxin should be given at once. Co-operation of the general public in precautionary measures against spread of disease should be sought by sanitary inspectors particularly in the fight against diphtheria.

Common drinking cups, chewing gum, and such things are responsible for the spread of diphtheria, more than any other agencies, declares one authority.

You deny yourself that which you most if you fail to come into contact with such a strong christian personality. Dates will appear next issue.

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR IRISH

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Irish situation has suddenly taken another turn for the better. Premier Sir James Craig of Ulster and Michael Collins head of the provisional government for Ireland reached an agreement after a few hours deliberation regarding the boundary between Ulster and southern Ireland. The agreement also provides for the cessation of the southern boycott against Belfast and the return of Catholic workmen to the Belfast shipyards.

The agreement has met with general approval all over and agreeable surprise is shown that the two parties have so quickly come to this arrangement which it is thought will go a long way to healing all differences between the two sections.

TEN WAYS TO KILL AN ORGANIZATION

1. Miss as many meetings as you can.
2. If you do attend, don't come on time, but late.
3. If the weather is not fine, don't think of going.
4. If you attend, be sure to find fault with the work of officers and other members.
5. Decline all offices, as it is easier to criticise than to do things.
6. Get sore if you are not put on a committee, or if appointed, don't attend meetings.

7. If chair asks your opinion, tell him you have none, but later tell others what should have been done.

8. Do nothing except that absolutely necessary, and when others roll up their sleeves to help matters, howl because of the clique running things.

9. Delay your dues as long as you can, and delay answering all letters.

10. Don't bother about getting new members—"Let George do it."

THE CANADIAN MERCHANT MARINE

The Canadian Merchant Marine is a Canadian institution—built with Canadian money—operated to further and facilitate the foreign commerce of this country. Somehow or other a report was circulated to the effect that "outsiders" were employed by the Canadian Merchant Marine to the exclusion of Canadians and British subjects. In denial of this report, the management of the Canadian National Railways offer the statement that of the 1674 employees on the payroll at December 31, 1920, exactly half were Canadians by birth or adoption and the balance were of British birth. It is the invariable practice of the management to employ only British subjects in the management and operation of this Government owned line of steamships.

"It's closing time now," said the teller, addressing the man. "We have enough cash on hand to pay this gentleman, and we can wire for more bills, which will reach us in time for to-morrow's business."

"Pay it, then," said the manager. "Mr. Harris has a right to his money. In that form if he wants it. But, if he would, I am sure Mr. Harris will give you to keep both eyes on it until your transaction is completed."

The counting of the money was a bigger task than either Harris or Allan had thought, but at last it was completed and the money was ready for the road. The banker looked after their baggy as it faded out of sight up the river road.

"Hank me if I like that!" he said to himself.

The long drive up the valley in the warm August afternoon was an experience for the soul of painter or poet. Even John Harris, who had schooled as they were in the religion of material things, felt something within them responding to the air, and the sunlight, and the dark green banks of trees, and the sound of rushing water, and the sorcery of the mountains, and the feeling of the horses, reminding them that the ascent was much steeper than it appeared. As they topped each new ridge they looked expectantly forward to a greater revelation of the mountains, but this was constantly denied by ever-recurring successions of ridges still ahead. The look, smooth surface of the plain gradually gave way to the more abrupt formations of the foothills, and here and there in their rounded domes protruded great warts of grey rock where the winds of ages had whirled the sand down into the valleys. Little clusters of green poplars and vast goates, nestled on the northern side of the hills across the valley, where the Chinook had failed to spread its balmy winter blight across them here and there were clumps of thousands of cattle feeding on the brown ranges. The sun, like a bubble of molten gold blown from the bowl of heaven, hung very close in a red-hell, cloudless sky. Lower it fell and lower, until a fang of rock two miles high pierced its underedge, and sent a food of fire pouring in a thin brilliant border along the crest of the Rockies. The travelers stopped their horses on a ridge to watch the marvellous transformation; light before them, light behind them, at their feet the shadows creeping up the mountain sides, and the valley beneath transformed as they were, as if by magic, into a sea of amber. Allan breathed deeply of the high clear air, and in his eye was something which revealed that the light without had come to strike to the light slumbering light within. He had no words of expression—no words of conveying his emotion. But he thought of his mother and Beulah—Beulah, who had so often protested against the subordination of existence for life. He had never had much patience with her queer notions, but now, in this moment, when he knew that in some strange way he had invaded the borderland of the infinite, Beulah stood up before his eyes—Beulah, his sister, resolute, defiant, reaching out, demanding life. He turned to his father, but was silenced by the sight of a line of moisture crawling slowly down the westerner's cheek. John Harris was driving along the pioneer trail from Emerson, at his side was Mary, beautiful and trusting, and he thought of her life. And they had not found that life. He could not dry sound in his throat, and the horses moved on.

Darkness settled about them. One or two stars came out. The poplars took on the colour of the spruce; the river fretted more noisily in its rocky channel. A thin ribbon of cloud lay across the mountains, and a breeze of wonderful mellowness came down through the pines. At length, just as they were thinking of pitching camp for the night, Allan reached a deserted cabin in a cluster of trees by the side of the road. They turned into the wood and unbridled the horses. The building was some old prospector's shack, long unoccupied save for a casual hunter or trapper, and the multitude of coppers that had been covered under its rotting sill. The door was open on a single window, looking out upon the road; the door had fallen from its hinges; the floor had been broken down in spots by the hoofs of wandering cattle. A safe revealed a lantern hanging on the wall and a few cooking utensils. The two men did not make their horses comfortable, and then cooked some supper on a little fire at the door of the shack. Harris was tired, so they cleared a space in the corner farthest from the door, and spread their blankets there. Harris lay down to rest, the precious bag of money by his side.

"You might as well drop off for a nap," Allan suggested. "They must have been delayed, and may not make it tonight at all. We're here for the night, and you may as well rest if you can. I won't turn in myself until you wake me."

"I believe I'll do as you say," his father agreed. "Keep a keen ear and don't leave the building without waking me."

Allan looked out at different times for Gardner and Riles, but there seemed no sound in all the world save the rushing of water. A cold draught swept along the floor. He fancied his father had fallen into a nap. The night chill deepened. At length Allan's hanging blanket as best he could across the open door. His gun gave him a sense of companionship, and he took it in his hands and sat down beside his father. It was very late and grateful in his fingers. While the banker worked in his garden in the long August evening (the thought of the two men with a bag full of money kept recurring and recurring in his mind, and smothering the natural pride he felt in his astounding cabbage). True, it was no business of his, but still he could not feel so entirely at ease. As he lay down he heard hoofs clatter in the street, and looking up, saw the great white of the steam fire on his well-grounded Government horse. A signal from the banker the policeman drew up beside the fence.

They talked in low voices for ten minutes. "It may be a wild goose chase," said the sergeant at last, "but it's worth a try." Half an hour later his horse was swinging in his long, sleek stride up the road by the wind river.

CHAPTER XVI

The Hound of Thieves

Gardner and Riles rode only a short distance out of town, then turned their horses into the deep bush, and waited. The afternoon wore on heavily, and the road of suspense haunted them sorely, but there was nothing to do but wait. It would be a fool's trip, as Gardner said, to go hunting unless they were assured of game.

But at last the Harris' team and luggy rattled by. When it had receded a good part the two horsemen emerged from their covering and took a cross road to Gardner's ranch.

"We better eat," said Gardner, and busied himself with starting a fire. "Of course, the cook's out. Fishing, I guess," he continued as he loaded that Travers' fishing rod was gone from the wall. "Perhaps it's just as well. He might be asking questions."

Riles ate his meat in haste and silence. He was taciturn, moody and excitable, and made no response to Gardner's attempts to open conversation upon trivial subjects.

"Upon my soul," said Gardner at last, "you don't seem any more than enthusiastic. One would think that we were going to a funeral instead of a 'division of profits'."

"Perhaps I am," said Riles stoutly. "We'll know better when we get back."

"Well, if you feel that way about it, you better stay at home," said Gardner, with pointed candour. "If ten thousand dollars is no good to you, we are going to have your share in my own business."

"That wouldn't let me out," protested Riles. "I don't want to stay in it now, and if things go wrong I'm in for it, but if things go right I can't wait to get out of it."

"Things won't go wrong," Gardner assured him. "They can't. Everything is planned to go right. If we see there's going to be a hitch—why, the owner of the mine'll fall out of it, and all the rest of it."

Gardner arose and took a bottle from a cupboard, and poured it into a glass and set it before Riles. "Drink that, and the world will look more to your liking," he said.

Riles responded to the liquor, and presently the two were in animated discussion of the plot. Riles was eager to know the details, of which he had been kept in complete ignorance, but Gardner would discuss nothing until they were on the road.

"Jim may come in any minute," he explained. "I don't wish to let him come to make him curious. And it's just a little too soon to excite his curiosity."

"That reminds me," Gardner continued. "Jim has a very neat little revolver, and I'll borrow it. We might see some game as Allan says."

A thing like a loaded revolver and cartridges in Travers' trunk. Gardner loaded the weapon and put it in his pocket.

"What about me?" demanded Riles. "Amn't I to have no gun?"

"It might go off," said Gardner. "Any gun, and there's a chance of a shot being fired. I don't want to be the man who kills a man."

The sun was slipping almost to the mountains when they set out on a single wheel up the valley. Down by the river, well screened with cotton-woods, Travers' house in a pool close by the river. Riles and Gardner riding slowly down the road. At last they thought Gardner had seen him but in a moment he revised that opinion. The two rule class by and stopped their horses to drink with their forefeet in the river. Jim was going to call to them when he heard his own name called. He was no cave-dweller, but he obeyed the impulse to listen and keep out of sight.

"Travers doesn't suspect a thing," Gardner was saying. "It's just as well. He figures on making out of his father-in-law some day, and he might do something foolish if he caught on. If the old man knew all his money he won't be so desirous from a son-in-law's point of view."

Well, we're now how to proceed, right in the old shanty up the river road. Strange things have happened down there now, let me tell you, Riles."

If Jim had been prompted by curiosity at first a very different emotion had held of him as he caught the gist of Gardner's remarks. He had no delusions about the principles of either Gardner or Riles. His relations with his present employer had been pleasant, but by no means confidential, as he had never sought nor valued Gardner's friendship. He was convinced that the two men were in a general way to those with whom he came in contact, because kindness cost nothing and might have occasion be exceedingly profitable. Riles, on the other hand, was coarse and brutal, and he had no intention of rising to no higher plane. Gardner was clever enough to concede almost any debt of obligation, and Riles was brutal enough to carry out the unscrupulous part of the plot. Travers had no idea that he was to be in the plot, but he had suspected for some days that Gardner and Riles were hatching mischief in their absence together. The information that Harris was going up the river to-night, apparently with a large sum of money, and the fact that these two men also were going up the river, gave to Travers' nimble mind framework on which to hang almost any work of plot.

Did Not Dream Tanlac Could Bring Her Such Wonderful Health

"I am only too glad to praise Tanlac, for it has done for me what I never dreamed was possible, and I now feel so well I can hardly realize that only a short time ago I was in such a miserable condition," said Miss Altyie Perth, 351 Carlton St., a popular young Winnipeg business woman, consulting a public stenographic office.

"Just about three years ago I had a nervous breakdown which kept me in bed for several weeks and left me in such an awful state of health I had but scant hope of ever getting better. I was so nervous I trembled all over, couldn't sleep and even after I went back to the office, I seemed to have no strength at all and only through sheer force of will power was I able to attend to my duties. My stomach soon became disordered, and indigestion caused me the most frightful pains, bloating and shortness of breath. My kidneys also bothered me and I had a pain across the small of my back that made life positively miserable.

"Well, despite the fact that I was trying one medicine after another, I found I was going down hill rapidly. But after taking only two bottles of Tanlac I could see it was doing me a world of good, and seven bottles have relieved me of all my ailments and now my health is just fine. My whole system seems to be in the best of condition, and I eat, sleep, work and enjoy life better than for years. Tanlac is simply grand."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

No Appetite

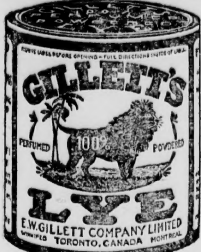

Nervous exhaustion leads to distaste for food. The nerves of the stomach are weak, digestion fails and you become generally upset and out of sorts.

The secret of complete restoration is in getting the nervous system fully built up.

Mrs. R. Cheney, 208 Richmond St., Chatham, Ont., writes:

"I was troubled with indigestion, which caused me many sleepless nights. I would be in the kitchen at times, over his head for two or three hours. For sixteen months I am nothing but Shiloh's Nervine Food. I did not eat anything else. I did not know what to do, as I had tried so many different remedies, as well as doctors' medicines, without obtaining permanent relief. Finally I got some of Dr. Chase's Nervine Food, and while on the second box noticed that I was improving. I continued the treatment until I am now fully restored, and have returned to my regular diet. My husband has also taken Dr. Chase's Nervine Food with splendid results, so we are glad to recommend it to others."

MICHAEL A. HARGADON.
Author of Irish and Canadian Poems
"Irish and Canadian Poems"

Volume of Verse Which is Attracting Wide Attention

A most valuable and delightful contribution to Canadian literature is a recently published book, "Irish and Canadian Poems," by Michael A. Hargadon. No one can peruse its pages without coming under the spell of this author. A very wide range of subjects are treated in most simple style and yet with a wealth of understanding and sincerity. With an evident love of nature and a gift of imagination, Mr. Hargadon's descriptive poems of Ireland are delightful. None the less pleasing are his verses dealing with the scenic beauties of Canada, the land of his adoption.

All lovers of poetry will surely revel in this volume, for the themes will strike a responsive chord in the hearts of everyone. Nicely printed and illustrated with many beautiful Canadian and Irish scenes, the book will prove a valued possession. The ever genial George H. Ham writes a fitting introduction in the work of this brilliant young poet.

A Cordial Invitation To Disease

This is an apt description of Constipation. It's an unnatural condition to begin with—but it's dangerous because it leads to indigestion, fills the system with poisons, brings on anemia. You don't need a purgative, you don't want to weaken the system by a harsh gripping medicine—what you need is mild natural stimulant to the bowels. You get just what you need in Dr. Hamilton's Pills which tone up the liver, restore the bowels to perfect action and positively end constipation. You'll feel top fit after regulating your system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Good for young and old—a real family medicine. All dealers or The Cataract Co., Montreal.

Our Ever-Changing Weight
Weighted in a delicate scale it would be found that your weight is a very fickle quantity. If the scales are delicate enough it would be seen that the mere act of stepping from the platform and back entails a loss of weight. The "baiting" of an eyelid means an expenditure of energy and a consequent loss of weight.

Hoarseness Rubbed Away Quickly By Nerviline

Changeable weather causes congestion and sore throat. The blood must be drawn from the inflamed part, and this is speedily done by applying Nerviline. The beauty of Nerviline is that it penetrates quickly. It is not oily and every drop sinks right in. It draws out the inflammation, eases the pain, makes the chest and throat well quickly. For relieving coughs, colds, hoarseness, Nerviline is the proper remedy. Throat-sufferers say: "Large 25c bottles sold everywhere."

Sao Paulo, the second city of Brazil, has one of the finest musical pal theatres in the world, costing several million dollars.

No matter how deep-rooted the corn may be, it must yield to Holloway's Corn Remover if used as directed.

The use of coal was at one time strictly prohibited in London on the ground that the air was rendered impure and unwholesome.

Horshoes of cowhide are, it is said, made in Australia.

Minard's Liniment for Warts, Corns, Etc.

WHY IS IT

that chronic skin diseases which have defied all other treatments yield to Zam-Buk?

It is because Zam-Buk is germicidal, and also has such power of penetration that it reaches diseases in the underlying tissues and cures from the "root" up. That is the only way a permanent cure can be effected.

Mr. H. C. Buckley of 461 E. Broadway, Portland, Oregon, says: "For chronic skin diseases there is nothing like Zam-Buk. For fifteen years I had eczema, and I tried an endless number of so-called 'cures', but nothing was capable of curing me permanently until I used Zam-Buk. For months' use of Zam-Buk has effected a complete cure."

For eczema, abscesses, boils, ringworm, blood-poisoning, piles, burns, scalds and cuts, Zam-Buk is equally good. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. box $2 for $12.

Modern Agitation

And Burma, too, is demanding political independence. The fact is the restless peoples of the eastern hemisphere don't know just what they want, but they want it—Hamilton Herald.

WINTER WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Our Canadian winters are exceedingly hard on the health of little ones. The weather is often so severe that the mother cannot take the little one out for an airing. The consequence is that baby is confined to a ventilated, but unventilated room; takes cold and becomes cross and peevish. Baby's Own Tablets should be given to keep the little one healthy. They are a mild laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels and thus prevent colic. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

World's Slow Speed Record

Turtle Travelled a Little Over a Mile in Three Years
Turtles that Prof. A. S. Deness, of the University of Wisconsin tagged and let loose, have achieved what is believed to be a world's record for turtle speed. Prof. Deness was at Toronto at the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science when one turtle had travelled a little over a mile in three years, 11 months and 10 days. The average distance covered by 168 turtles in 3 months was 115 yards. Prof. Deness has determined that the density of turtle population in a swampy region on the shore of Lake Michigan, Wis., is five to twenty-five per acre.

CATARRAHAL DEAFNESS

Is easily relieved by constitutional treatment. HENRI'S CATARRHAL MEDICINE is a coughless remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous membrane of the middle ear. When this time is inflamed, it causes a ringing or buzzing sound, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Dr. Henri's Catarrhal Medicine acts through the blood on the mucous surface of the ear, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring hearing. It restores normal conditions.

Simple White Satin Evening Gown

By Marie Belmont

The mode of all white for evening here finds charming expression in white satin outlined in pearl beads. The slim, straight silhouette forms an effective contrast to the bouffant tulle that is finding their way into every ballroom scene.

The beauty of this gown lies in its simple inspiration. The dress is made of two straight panels, of which the back one is left plain across the neck. The straight panel is slit down the front a short distance from the neck. The points are then pulled over to each shoulder, forming a V-neck, with an irregular line extending down the sides to the waistline. The satin underlay has lace-trimmed cascading chiffon at the sides.
